6. Additional provisions, if any, not inconsistent with Chapter 7-1.2 which the incorporators elect to have set forth in these Articles of Incorporation:

The corporation shall have the right, in the event of a proposed sale of any of the common stock of this corporation by any stockholder, to purchase said common stock at the lowest price at which such stockholder is willing to sell the same before such common stock may be sold to any other party; and no sale of any common stock to any party other than the corporation shall be valid unless the offer to sell such stock, at the lowest price at which the holder thereof is willing to sell, shall have first been received in writing by the corporation. The corporation shall have sixty (60) days from the receipt of said offer in which to accept or reject said offer. A majority of the stockholders present at the meeting at which such offer is made and who are entitled to vote, although said majority may not be a quorum, shall have the power to accept or reject such offer on behalf of the corporation.

Any stockholder who shall have offered his common stock for sale to the corporation in accordance with the foregoing provisions, may at any time within fifteen (15) days after the rejection of such offer by the corporation, or if the corporation shall neither accept nor reject such offer, then within sixty (60) days after such offer shall have been received by the corporation, sell the common stock that was offered to the corporation, to any other party, but not for a price lower than that at which such common stock was previously offered to the corporation, and the corporation may require affidavits from the stockholder(s) and the purchaser(s) of said common stock as to the price paid before transferring such stock upon the books of the corporation.
